SOMETHING WORTH KNOWING.

The officers of the soft coal pool and the manager of the car service association freely say that they have never seen the trade so dull. "In fact,'; said Manager Halsey, of the Western New York Car Service Association, "I have not in years seen things so dull in the railroad line." Mr. Halsey is in a good position to judge, as he is in charge of the records of all the freights arriving

The announcement that natural gas has been discarded as fuel at the Edgar Thompson Steel Works, and that the boiler grates have been changed so that coal can be used, is a matter of immense importance to the coal industry of Western Pennsylvania and to labor as well.

A burning coal mine exists in Picton County, Canada. Commissioners reported that the coai pit has been on fire at one place or another ever since 1859, and that it is likely to burn.

Mr. Freeman H. Curtis, an expert mining engineer, now post-master at Seward, Cal., has been interested for some years in developing coal mines at Coal Bay, Alaska. In an interview in reference to Alaska's mineral wealth, in a recent issue of the San Francisco Call, Mr. Curtis says: Both gold and coal have been known to be there time, but it is only within the past two or three years that any particular attention has been paid to developing those interests. The coal prospects give great promise, because of both the quality and quantity of the veins.

Too much "push" of tonnage in the fall of the year will break prices wide open. The tonnage for July is all right.

With the approach of political campaigns there is a revival of agitation in a great many directions against what the parties stimulating the propeganda call an exposition of monopoly.

This is practically an attempt to thrash life into a dead borse. These attacks have been made in the past, and they have effected no purpose whatever, except to show the hollowness of the ground on which they are based. This talk against this monopoly and that monopoly and its disastrous results to the general public has been going on for years. It is claimed that this monopolization allows the producer to fix the price on this or that particular article and the people have to pay the price or do without it.

Of course there are trusts of this character such as the Standard Oil monoply, but they are exceptions to the general rule. The strengons efforts however, which are being put fort to en-amongst parties engaged in individual production with the category of the monopoly referred to are without logic or reason. The great variety of influences which operate to restrict a monopoly in the coal trade are too well known, and that makes it unnecessory to have to refer to them here. It would be as impossible to form a compact organization of coal operators in this country, as it would be to organize the grocers.
